DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 32-36, 65-68, 70-73, 80, 81, 83-86, 88 and 96-98 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,062,847 to Barnes.

Barnes discloses a tissue anchor comprising an elongate tube (12) having a closed distal end (FIG. 3) and four apertures (FIG. 2) spaced proximally from the distal end; an elongate member (16) with four curved anchor members with free distal ends (FIG. 2), each anchor member associated with an aperture (FIG. 1 and 2). At least one anchor member includes a barb (pods 15) adjacent the distal end. The elongate member is in its unbiased state in the second position (FIG. 2). Barnes discloses that at least one anchor member extends beyond a distal end of the elongate member when the elongate member is in its first position (FIG. 1). Barnes discloses a stop to limit movement of the rod with respect to the elongate tube (FIG. 4 point 20).

Barnes discloses that the device is between 1 mm and 3 mm in diameter (Column 3 lines 5-7).

3. Claims 75, 76, 78 and 79 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,707,362 to Yoon.

Regarding 75, Yoon discloses a tissue anchor comprising an elongate tube (30) having a closed distal end adapted to be advanced into the tissue mass (86), a central bore, and a plurality of apertures (40) extending through the wall; a manually controllable actuator (Column 10 lines 35-43) carried by an elongate tube and comprising an elongate member (32) sized for a close sliding fit within the central bore of the elongate tube, the actuator being movable with respect the elongate tube between a first position and a second position (Column 10 lines 35-43); and a plurality of manually deployable anchor members(44), with one anchor member being associated with aperture of the elongate tube (FIGS 2 and 3), each of the anchor members being operatively connected to the actuator such that each anchor member assumes a retracted position when the actuator is in its first position (FIG. 6) and each anchor assumes an extended position when the actuator is in its second position (FIG. 7 and Column 10 lines 25-43), each anchor member in its retracted position having a major portion received within the central bore of the elongate tube (FIG. 6), each anchor member in its extended position projecting outwardly from its associated aperture and assuming a curved configuration (FIG. 7).

Regarding claims 76, Yoon discloses that the apertures of the elongate tube are spaced proximally of the distal end (FIG. 2 slots 40).

Regarding claims 79, Yoon discloses a stop, the stop cooperating with the elongate tube (Column 8 lines 44-55).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 32-36, 65-68, 74-76, 78-85, 87, 88, 92 and 98 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 90, 91, 93-95 and 99 are allowed.

6. Claims 74, 82 and 87 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
